Explantory Notes

1. The data contained in this report are based on Georgia County Extension Agent estimates. The data were collected in a survey of these agents. Upon publication, some errors were reported. These have been corrected for the web version of this report. Therefore, the numbers displayed here may differ slightly from the publication. Please consider these website figures as more accurate and up-to-date.
2. The format of this year's report differs slightly from previous reports. Several categories were further disaggregated in this report. These are: Beef into beef stockers and beef cattle; Misc. Fruits into apples, blueberries, and grapes; Misc. Small Grains into barley, oats, rye, and sorghum; Nursery into container and field production; and Vegetables into snap beans, cabbage, carrots, sweet corn, cucumbers, eggplants, greens, okra, onions, bell peppers, other peppers, Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, yellow squash, tomatoes, zucchini and other vegetables.
3. In certain places, this report refers to 1998 vegetables. In this case, watermelons and Vidalia onions are included. The 1997 data does not include watermelons and Vidalia onions in the main grouping of vegetables. A side note: in 1997, vegetables as a category was in the Top Ten Commodity list. In 1998, vegetables are not in the Top Ten. This is because we have disaggregated the category.
4. The Miscellaneous Income category contains all estimates provided which did not have a major heading. This includes, but is not limited to, items such as rabbits, cantaloupe, strawberries, hay, Christmas trees, earthworms, apiculture sales, hunting dogs, millet, pine straw, Asian pears, lambs, wool, canola and cane.
